2. Presentation of processing cases and the scope of processed data

The UEFA EURO 2020™ is governed by UEFA. The LOS organizes matches and other events at the tournament venues in Budapest according to UEFA regulations. For professionals who wish to participate in the event, entry to matches or other events is subject to accreditation.

The UEFA provides accreditation through its platform. The UEFA forwards the information provided by persons requesting accreditation to the LOS. The LOS will forward ~~the information~~certain personal data received ~~by~~ from UEFA regarding the person requesting accreditation to the police, who will carry out the background check and then return only the data of the persons who are questioned or not recommended by the Police for accreditation. The LOS sends back the received feedback from the Police to the UEFA, who thus denies the accreditation of the person questioned during the background check. Due to lack of this the accreditation will be recorded, issued and handed over in the register.

LOS receives the following information through the dedicated UEFA platform:

- last name,
- first name,
- gender,
- nationality,
- date of birth,
- type and number of the identity document
- UEFA ID.

For the purpose of issuing the accreditation, UEFA, with the support of LOS, records a photograph of the person concerned on the UEFA platform. This photograph is printed on the accreditation device.

Jointly with the issue of accreditation, its date, serial number and the signature of the person concerned are recorded by UEFA, with the support of LOS, on the UEFA platform, for the purpose of proving delivery. These data are not accessible by LOS.

The LOS, in order to handle security events, may get the photograph from the UEFA.

At the accreditation centre, beside the LOS exclusively designated accreditation specialist, police document experts can verify the authenticity of identity documents.

The purpose of completing the accreditation process is to carry out background checks of persons requiring accreditation for the organization of highlighted international sporting events in Hungary in order to meet the safety requirements set by UEFA and to have the necessary data on the persons applying for accreditation in order to ensure the security of the events and to support law enforcement activities.

5. Data recipients, categories of recipients

The LOS does not disclose the data, however it transmits the data to the Police and to UEFA as described in section 2. If the accreditation already issued is invalidated, the necessary personal data may be also transferred to the security company of the event.

In addition to the above, certain data - determined by the UEFA as data controller - are collected, processed and forwarded by the HFF to the UEFA.
